CASS VOIT

AUTHOR BIO

Cass Voit (aka Sako Tumi) is a self-published author based out of Northern Virginia. She has breached 100 subscribers on Authortube after eleven years of honing her writing craft. She is also a professional Photographer, Illustrator, Bellydancer and Flow Artist. At the end of the day, she enjoys curling up with her husband and her black cat, Nobukatsu, a stupid show and a horror book. She can be found on most social media as either Sako Tumi or Psychosako.

BUSINESS BIO

Cass Voit is the writer of the stand alone HopesChest and the Damned Hitman Series since 2005. She graduated in 2006 with a BFA in Graphic Design. In 2011, she jumped from short stories to novels, and has never looked at fanfiction the same way since. In April of 2020, she decided to self publish in a fast release over two years through White Wolf's fan-label, Dark Pack. Her youtube channel subscribers tripled. She was invited to host during Authortube events. She looks forward to what the future has to hold.

BOOK BLURB

Pandora "Panda" Tran is a queen among the White Hats based out of the Washington DC area. When a government agency hires her to hack into a "suspect" forum, she is confronted by wizards that use computers in their magic. When the Government agents that hired her show their true colors, Panda has no choice but to also learn this form of magic in order to stay alive

BOOK EXERPT

No bells rung, no guard dogs released. I patted myself on the back and contacted BuckBuddy, who happened to be a client of mine.

"Pandora.Tran: Your Bangalore software developer left a "back door" in the authentication server. From there, I was able to access 100,000 accounts.

I dropped in a data miner and when the client accessed the server, I was able to waltz in and replicate transactions, as well as create a false account with a stolen social security number. I am not exactly a black hat Einstein, so i can't possibly be the first to find this vulnerability. I can provide a full vulnerability assessment with all mitigation recommendations for a OTF (one time fee) of $50,000, which I assure you is a bargain."

I will leave it to your imagination how to the bank responded.
